

We'll miss April...

... But we'll console ourselves with Miss May, June and July. This week, DWTS evicted its first couple, and Playboy partied at Pasha. Photos by Norrie Montgomery.

"I'VE JUST come out tonight to look at the silicone," said the middle aged ex-husband of a hugely famous blonde. He wouldn't have been disappointed either. There were extraordinary mounds of it wherever you looked, and it was very hard to keep your eyes above clavicle level in the bright lights of the Playboy store at Sylvia Park – which had its kick-off on Wednesday night. Cameras, still and moving, didn't stop as the one Bunny and two Playmates smiled and posed with local beauties, Nicky, Vicky, Michaiiah, and an unknown model from Nova called Kim, who had one of the most beautiful faces I have ever seen, but who doesn't get much work – because she doesn't look Kiwi enough. (The modeling world is weird, weird, weird).

Jerry Clayton hadn't taken much persuading to get involved with the iconic glamour brand and they provided a fleet of 15 BMWs to taxi partygoers back into Pasha on Princes Wharf, which was throbbing with 200-odd funsters until about 2am.

The key to a good party, besides music, low lighting and free-flowing alcohol is always a crazy mix of people, and this had everyone from April, Suzanne, Matthew and Nicky to Pat Rippin and Richard Prebble's former wife Doreen, along with squads of models.

It was the first time Nicky and Matthew had spoken since The Split (he talked, she listened.) "We have different realities," says Nicky, but she wouldn't be the first woman to say that about her ex. Matthew, looking a bit grey around the chops but pulsing with testosterone ("he looks hot!!") was later seen in the ladies' loos on his second round of chatting with Nicky.

April and Csaba were trying to be cheerful about being voted off DWTS first, but did seem a bit glum. "Who was voted off first last year?" she asked. Christine Rankin and before that Nicky Watson, so she was in pretty good company – which was cheering. Suzanne Paul looked very loved-up with her husband Hamish and Brendan Cole was on the receiving end of the steamiest stares from an unknown blonde with short legs – although the only woman he had eyes for was the Playboy Bunny.
